Kaiser Bill has lost his influence, so has Sidney J. in Florida. "It's a long lane that has no turn."

The governor's "influence" in Duval county failed to land his son-in-law in the collector of taxes office.

In Tuesday's election the Democrats lost three Senators and eight members of the house. President Wilson policies relating to the war was therefore turned down by the voters, many of whom were Prussian sympathizers, as no true American could or would in anyway stay the course of their greatest President. The lower house of Congress will be controlled by Republicans.

Collector Rast, of Duval county, who recently resigned to the office of county tax collector, was Tuesday elected again to the office by a vote of double to number of his two opponents. The Florida governor, who appointed his son-in-law to the vacancy made by Mr. Rast, spent several days in the metropolis in the interest of his son-in-law's election, but so little "pull" by the governor was shown in the election that D. A. Mayfield, a plunger, polled two to one votes against the son-in-law.

CURE FOR BLUES NEAR THE CAMPS

Community Service Takes Place of Mother, Friends and Home for Soldiers.

Ten young officers of the Student Army Training Corps of the University of Detroit, recently applied for a furnished house and a housekeeper who would not be a servant, but, as one young officer expressed it, "the sort of woman to whom the boys can call out 'Hello, mother!' when they come in the front door."

Homelickness is the malady for which War Camp Community Service supplies innumerable cures.

"We've got your number," says the W. C. C. S. to the homesick boy from camp with leisure to spend in any one of the three hundred towns scattered over the country. While he's wondering what on earth he'll do with himself when he gets there, not knowing a soul in town and with a limited percentage of his "thirty per" in his pocket, along comes a friendly printed card from the local branch of his own lodge announcing a reception that night especially for soldier members. By the same mail the Methodist church sends an announcement of all its meetings, addressed to him, with This Means You printed at the bottom. How did they know he was a Methodist?

He had forgotten about the little "Personal Card" he made out at the adjutant's request during his first day in camp when it was only one of the endless details in the round of dentists and doctors and general confusion. The W. C. C. S. had not only his number, but his name and address, his home town, the name of the school he'd gone to and a good bit about the things he was fond of doing—each thing written into a little blank on the card especially for it.

Wasted Time.

School hours are business hours. The manufacturer or merchant cannot afford to waste time in business hours; the future manufacturer or merchant cannot afford to waste time in school hours. This is why we have the demand for vocational education.—Montez Star.

A LETTER FROM "OVER THERE"

Mrs. J. L. Horsey, of this city, is in receipt of the following letter from her son, which will prove of interest to Fernandinians:

Dearest:

There has been a little break in my chain of letters to you and it has been impossible lately for me to reach a town where I could send a cable. However, I hope that before you receive this you will have heard from me.

I remained only about ten days with the 79th Division, and was ordered to report to the 26th for duty as assistant chief of staff, G2. I had to do some real hustling to reach them before the big American show started against the St. Meille salient, the result of which you probably know all about through the papers. I am very pleased indeed with my assignment, although I have been put back in my old rank as captain. The general is a real "he" man, and as you probably know the division was cited by Gen. Pershing for its fine work in the Chateau Thierry fight, so you can judge what a cracking good outfit it is and how proud I feel to be in its staff and have a hand in guiding its destinies.

Arriving practically on the eve of the big fight, I hardly had time to get adjusted, but things must have operated satisfactorily, as the staff was complimented by the army commander for its work.

I have just received a letter from father dated July 28th, so you can see how far behind I am with my mail. However, it brought me the very good news that everybody was well at home and that you were in particularly good health and "spirits" (I hope not the kind the Jacksonville people came to Fernandina for). I tell you what, it makes a fellow feel a whole lot happier when he knows that all is well at home.

I wish I could tell you all about the very remarkable fight that we have just been through, but again the requirements of the censor prevents "writing a story of the war". Of course, the remarkable part about it was the great swiftness with which the blow was dealt the Hun, and the great depth to which we carried the fight in less than twenty-four hours. Naturally, the Hun claims that he "withdrew" to a new position. There is no doubt that he did withdraw, but he hadn't made up his mind to do so until we hit him on the north and when he ran continued to kick him in the pants. The fight started at 8 o'clock in the morning (the 12th) and at 3 a. m. the next day we had penetrated his position about seventeen kilometers, had made a junction with American troops, who had attacked from the south, and effectively nipped off the St. Meille salient. From our present position we have observation on the famous "Hindenburg line" with our naked eyes and everybody is growling because we are not ordered to smash this west position and go through to Metz. As I've told you before, the American soldiers fight like tigers—they have dash and spirit and it is indeed wonderful to see them.

I had a remarkable experience a

Catarrh for Twenty Years

Mrs. M. S. Davis, 1607 10th Ave., N. Nashville, Tenn., writes:

"After having been a constant sufferer from catarrh for more than twenty years and after trying almost every remedy advertised, and having lost all hope, I very reluctantly began the use of Peruna about two years ago. Everybody says I look younger now than I did twenty years ago, and I actually feel younger and better, and weigh more. I am recommending it to my neighbors and all with whom I come in contact."

couple of days ago. I was on my way up the line in my car, when two boys standing alongside the road attracted my attention. I stopped, and to my surprise and delight they were two men who had been in my old company at Wheeler. I got out of the car and had quite a long talk with them, trying to get a line on where the rest of the outfit is. Truly I was almost as glad to see them as though they had been members of my family. They were both Tampa boys.

It feels mighty good to be doing some real work after all the study and training I have had to absorb. I am trying as hard as I can and surely hope to capture my additional rank—major—which this assignment did not carry with it. However, it is worth a great deal to be with a division which is considered one of the hardest and best fighting outfits in the American army.

Goodnight, dearest. I wish very much I could see you tonight. The greatest delight in whipping the Hun is the realization that I can get back home to you. Give my love to all the family and kiss each one of them for me. With a heartfelt love for you and thousands of kisses, as ever,

Devotedly,

HAMILTON.

ABOUT GROUP.

If your children are subject to croup, or if you have reason to fear their being attacked by that disease, you should procure a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and study the directions for use, so that in case of an attack you will know exactly what course to pursue. This is a favorite and it is important that you observe the directions carefully.

Aristotle's Prescription.

A balsam for every ill, an ease for every ache, is translated by Steele from the "Secretum Secretorum," supposed to have been written by the philosopher Aristotle for his pupil, Alexander the Great. The concoction consists of juices of various fruits boiled down and seasoned with musk, ambergris and aloes, various highly expensive oils salted liberally with powdered pearls, rubies, sapphires, amethysts, emeralds, gold, etc., all being guarded by appropriate magical precautions.

Alexander, however, died at an early age from excessive imbibing, not of the delectable mixtures prescribed by his mentor, but of the juice of the grape.

CHAMBERLAIN'S COUGH REMEDY.

Do not imagine that because other cough medicines failed to give you relief that it will be the same with Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Bear in mind that from a small beginning this remedy has gained a world wide reputation and immense sale. A medicine must have exceptional merit to win esteem wherever it comes known.

MERCY MUNITIONS NEEDED IN TRENCHES

Lieut. Coningsby Dawson, Fighting Author, Makes Stirring Appeal for Y. W. C. A.

Lieut. Coningsby Dawson, who wrote "Carry On," says of the war work which the Y. W. C. A. is doing: "You at home cannot fight with your lives, but you can fight with your mercy. The Y. W. C. A. is offering you just this chance. It carries the women's support trenches, which lie behind the men's. It asks you to supply them with munitions of mercy that they may be passed on to us. We need such supplies badly. Give generously that we may the sooner defeat the Hun."

What Lieut. Dawson says of the Y. W. C. A. he might have said of all the national organizations which are coming together for the biggest financial campaign that organizations have ever headed. All the $170,000,000 to be raised by the seven great national organizations the week of November 11 will be used to garrison and supply the support trenches behind the lines. They are the Y. M. C. A., the Y. W. C. A., the National Catholic War Council, Jewish Welfare Board, American Library Association, War Camp Community Service and Salvation Army.

American girls in various uniforms mingle strangely with picturesque Brittany costumes in France. The American Y. W. C. A. has a hostess house in Brittany where the Signal Corps women live and a hut where the nurses spend their free time. Both these centers are fitted with many of the comforts and conveniences of home.

"At a tea given at the nurses' hut one Saturday afternoon," writes Miss Mabel Warner, of Salina, Kansas, Y. W. C. A. worker there, "there was an odd gathering—one admiral, a bishop, a Presbyterian minister, a Roman Catholic priest, a doctor, an ensign, one civilian and myself."

SERVICE THAT WINS THE SOLDIER HEART

Fred Lockley, Y. M. C. A., Tells of the Gratitude of the Boys at the Front.

"One of the discoveries men are making over here," Fred Lockley, of the Y. M. C. A. and of Portland, Oregon, writes from London, "is that more pleasure can be had out of giving than getting. Many a man who has spent money freely in the old days to buy pleasure is finding that he gets more pleasure over here by the spending of one's self in the service of others."

A few months ago I went out with a fellow Y. M. C. A. secretary to hunt up out-of-the-way detachments of troops. A stable guard here, a machine gun company there, a platoon somewhere else. We carried our goods in an automobile. We had plenty of writing paper and envelopes for free distribution, and chocolate, cookies, chewing tobacco and smoking tobacco, cigarettes, razor blades, tooth paste and things of that kind for sale. American war service workers were busy everywhere. We found Salvation Army lassies making doughnuts for the boys and K. of C. secretaries giving help. Books furnished by the American Library Association were to be seen on all sides.

"Hearing firing at a distance, we drove down the road and found a score or so of men at machine gun practice. The officer gave the men half an hour recess to buy goods."

"At another place we came in sight of a lieutenant drilling a platoon. I said to the lieutenant: 'How soon before you dismiss the company?' We have Y. M. C. A. goods for sale."

"He said: 'Right now, Sergeant, dismiss the company!'"

"And ten seconds later the company was in line waiting to buy goods from our traveling 'Y.' Grateful is no name for it. The men can't do enough to show their gratitude."

Oysters Killed by Poisoned Waters.

A few months ago a phenomenon, known locally as "leturbie," appeared in a part of the pearl-fishing grounds near Margarita Island. This consists in a decomposition or poisoning of the waters, which brings about the death of the oysters and the consequent destruction of the beds.

The immediate loss in pearls from this disaster is estimated at from 3,000,000 to 4,000,000 bolivars ($579,000 to $772,000), and it was thought best to prohibit fishing in the infected district.—Commerce Reports.
